AS PERFORMED BY

“THE PRESIDENT’S OWN” UNITED STATES MARINE BAND

March, “On the Campus” (1920)

Sousa’s daughter, Helen Sousa Abert, stated that her father had written this march at the request of the publisher. It was dedicated “To collegians, past, present, and future.” One of two sets of words Mrs. Abert wrote for the march appeared on the sheet music, and she was of the opinion that the rejected version was not as “corny” as the printed version.

Paul E. Bierley, The Works of John Philip Sousa (Westerville, Ohio: Integrity Press, 1984), 76. Used by permission.

Editorial Notes

Throughout Sousa’s career as a conductor, he often altered the performance of his marches in specific ways without marking or changing the printed music. These alterations were designed for concert performances and included varying dynamics and omitting certain instruments on repeated strains to expand the range of the musical textures, as well as adding unscripted percussion accents for dramatic emphasis at key points in the music. Although Sousa never documented his performance techniques himself, several players who worked extensively with Sousa provided directions for his frequently performed marches, most notably from cornetist Frank Simon. Many of the marches in this volume of “The Complete Marches of John Philip Sousa” were staples in Sousa’s regular concert repertoire and were included in the “Encore Books” used by the Sousa Band, which can be found online at <https://www.marineband.marines.mil/About/Library-and-Archives/Encore-Books/>. A complete set of his Encore Books resides in the U.S. Marine Band Library and Archives and are referenced extensively by the Marine Band not only as a guide for some of Sousa’s special performance practice, but also to ascertain the exact instrumentation he employed in his own performances of his marches.

“The Complete Marches of John Philip Sousa” appears in chronological order and is based on some of the earliest known sources for each composition. These newly edited full scores correct many mistakes and inconsistencies found in the parts of early publications; however, all of the other expressive markings and the original scoring are largely preserved. Where instruments are added to the original published orchestration, it is guided by the additional parts Sousa sanctioned in his Encore Books where applicable or based on these typical doublings. Additionally, the alterations traditionally employed by the United States Marine Band in performance are incorporated throughout; either those specifically documented by Sousa’s musicians or changes modeled on the customary practices of “The March King” in his own performances.

The musical decisions included in these editions were influenced by the work of several outstanding Sousa scholars combined with many decades of Marine Band performance tradition. These editions would not be possible without the exceptional contributions to the study of Sousa’s marches by Captain Frank Byrne (USMC, ret.), Jonathan Elkus, Colonel Timothy Foley (USMC, ret.), Loras Schissel, Dr. Patrick Warfield, and “The March King’s” brilliant biographer, Paul Bierley.

Performance practices that deviate from the original printed indications are described below and appear in [brackets] in the score. There are many instances in which these alterations appear side-by-side with the original markings in this edition in an effort to clearly document where and how these deviations occur. An open diamond marked with an accent in the cymbal part indicates that the cymbal player should let that accent ring for an additional beat before rejoining the bass drum part.

Introduction (m. 1-4): The capped notes in m. 2 and the accent on the “and” of beat one in m. 4 should be set apart from the rest of the notes, further enhanced by the choked cymbal in m. 4.

First Strain (m. 4-21): The dynamic drops to mezzo-forte on the pick-up notes to m. 5. There should be good contrast between the slurred and articulated notes in the melody of this active first strain. The crescendo to fortissimo in m. 10-12 adds some drama before another subito mezzo-forte for melody instruments (but a quick diminuendo for the accompaniment) as indicated. A second crescendo in the final four measures completes the phrase, and low brass should not decrescendo in the first ending in order to create another subito mezzo-forte for the repeat of the strain, which is played exactly the same as the first time.

Second Strain (m. 21-39): Because of the transition into the second strain, it makes sense to execute a diminuendo in the low brass this time in m. 21. Piccolo, E-flat clarinet, cornets, trombones, and cymbals are then tacet first time through, and all others play at a piano dynamic. Alto clarinet and bassoons have an interesting rhythmic figure here that should be clearly heard. Although all are playing softly, the accents on the melody are important. All instruments rejoin on beat two of m. 37 with a subito fortissimo, and accents are now added in the percussion parts, including a stronger sffz accent on beat two of m. 32, second time only.

Trio (m. 39-71): Piccolo, E-flat clarinet, cornets, trombones, and cymbals are tacet for the first part of this this long-form trio, which is based on a playful campus song. The words are included in the E-flat cornet part for historical reference. Breath marks have been added to this edition in all parts to echo the phrasing of the original song, and the added accents add some stylization to the performance practice. The song is repeated beginning in m. 56, this time with an obbligato added in the upper winds. Piccolo and E-flat clarinet may rejoin here, and battery percussion is replaced by a bell part doubling the melody.

Break Strain (m. 71-91): All instruments rejoin on beat two of m. 71 with a subito fortissimo. Battery percussion returns with solo cymbal crashes and the addition of a rolled wood block played by the snare drummer as indicated. Some of the rhythms in the percussion parts in this strain were inconsistent and have been corrected in this edition. Accents for all instruments are carefully placed in this break strain and should sound with a different intensity than the other notes. The fortissimo is traditionally carried through all the way to the downbeat of m. 91 before a subito piano on beat two, first time.

Final Strain (m. 91-108): Piccolo, E-flat clarinet, cornets, trombones, and cymbals are tacet once more, first time through the final strain, and first clarinets play one octave lower than the original parts as indicated. Second and third clarinets have interesting arpeggios throughout the obbligato part in the upper woodwinds, and these should be well articulated to come through. All instruments re-enter with a subito fortissimo on beat two of m. 107 for the repeat of the break strain, which is played exactly as before. The final strain is repeated, this time at fortissimo and at the higher octave for first clarinets. A sffz accent is traditionally added in percussion in m. 105 the final time through.

March ON THE CAMPUS

Piccolo

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA

March Tempo.

The musical score for the Piccolo part of 'March On the Campus' is written in 2/4 time with a key signature of three flats (B-flat, E-flat, A-flat). The score consists of nine staves of music, with measure numbers 6, 10, 15, 20, 27, 35, 42, and 49 marked at the beginning of their respective staves. The music features various dynamics including fortissimo (ff), mezzo-forte (mf), piano (p), and fortissimo (ff) with a '2nd X' marking. It also includes articulation marks like accents (>) and slurs, as well as performance instructions such as 'March Tempo.', 'mf sub.', '[p] ff', '(ff) (2nd X)', 'p dolce', and '[lightly]'. The score includes first and second endings at measures 20-22 and 35-37, with a 'tacet' instruction for the second ending of the first section. The piece concludes with a final measure at measure 50.
